

While the weather in NYC this April was cold, and then warm, and then cold again, the restaurant openings were hot pretty much the entire way through. These 15 are the hottest of the hot, from a place doing pierogies stuffed with mac & cheese, to a new spot that boasts the city's first "hot sauce sommelier."

15. INDUSTRY KITCHEN

Along with views of the boats and the water right near the Seaport, this new spot from Merchants Hospitality also offers up wood-fired pizza, burrata, steak with grilled summer squash ribbons and smoked pepper salsa, and chocolate pizza.
