Make a reservation at Industry Kitchen and sit along the East River next to the historic South Street Seaport. You'll enjoy unobstructed views of the Brooklyn and Williamsburg bridges as well as the Brooklyn skyline. Open the menu and you'll immediately notice they serve modern American cuisine based on seasonal market ingredients. Their pizza is made with natural levain and cooked in a wood burning oven — making it perfectly crispy. Although the Bianca pizza is made with just three ingredients – fresh mozzarella, aged Pecorino and olive oil – it's the perfect combination of flavors. Order the Blistered Shishito Peppers or Spanish Artichoke and Creamy Ricotta Dips to share before moving onto other entrée options like the Rosemary Chicken Pot Pie, Spiced Rubbed Short Ribs or Oxtail Tortellini. Wash it all down with a cold beer or cocktail like the "Rose House," made with vodka, St. Germain, strawberry, lemon, simple and Prosecco; or the "Courier Pacific," mixed with tequila, lime, simple, cucumber and Chipotle Tabasco. Go for a stroll along the seaport after and take in all the different views of the city.
