

20 Lovely Outdoor Dining Spots in New York City

April 14 2017

Get outside!

After a few false starts, al fresco season is finally here. While some restaurants haven't yet dusted off the patio furniture, there are a few outdoor dining options already opening for the season. Whether you're looking for a secluded patio or prime street-side people watching, here are 20 great places currently open for dining outside.

Did we miss your favorite patio? Let us know in the comments. And stay tuned for guides to outdoor drinking.

Industry Kitchen

There isn't a bad seat in the house at this South Street restaurant, where every table offers views of the Brooklyn Bridge and East River.

