

Pretty in Pistachio

24 Jul Seasonal Menu at Industry Kitchen

There's nothing I love more about summer than dining al fresco! Especially in NYC when eating outdoors also means people watching. People watching is sometimes how I find my latest fashion inspiration, you'd be amazed at how creative some people in the city can get!

I live fairly close to the seaport. The seaport has really changed over the years. When I first moved here in 2008 there was an indoor shopping mall and some tourist attractions. Over the years, they knocked down the mall, added a grassy area to hang out under the sun, boat tours, and a few cool restaurants. One of those restaurants is Industry Kitchen. They have a huge wrap around porch with seating so it is a great option if you want to have cocktails or dinner outside.

By Hello Giggles July 24, 2017

