

Unicorn Pizza Has Began Her Reign And The Whole World Turns Pink

The unicorn craze has taken over the market and of course, pizza couldn't have gotten away. Finally, we have an unicorn pizza, after we've already gotten unicorn quesadillas, unicorn toast, unicorn pastries and the Starbucks Unicorn Frappuccino. But let's not forget about all those other unicorn things that we cannot eat, but we can still pay for, such as unicorn hair or unicorn make-up. We think it is time for a unicorn song. Who shall sing it?

The unicorn pizza (woow, we've used the word "unicorn" so many times, it might get a dictionary of its own in the future) is technically called the "pop candy land" pizza and is brought to us, mortals, by Industry Kitchen, a NYC-based restaurant that serves some of the most delicious-sounding pizzas you could possibly think of.